he'd lost one. Big deal. She still had nine. It was only one coin out of ten, but it meant a lot to her. So she put on all the lights and cleaned the house from top to bottom. If only she could remember where she'd put it. Where had she last seen it? She searched everywhere. Every nook and cranny. Nothing was left unturned. And then, when she had almost given up hope, she found it! Relief! Joy! Excitement! She was so thrilled about refinding her lost treasure that she called her friends neighbours over to help her celebrate. What a party!

Luke 15:9 recounts this story and tells of the great celebration in heaven when one sinner, one precious soul, returns to God. We are precious in His sight.

His love and His words of truth are precious in our sight. Good health, peace of mind... these are some of the priceless treasures that can be found in God. Author and Lecturer. Dr. Walter Veith, is committed to uncovering the rare truths that can be found in nature and in the Bible. He broke new ground in the study of geology, archaeology, and evolution to bring forward some amazing discoveries about creation and the Creator.

And now . . . we are breaking new ground. We're bringing you the first edition of the official Amazing Discoveries'

Newsletter. Like the woman in Luke 15, we want to celebrate our finds with our friends and neighbours! To that end, this newsletter will be a forum for new and exciting

Xcitement Marks the Spot!

Auditorium in Burnaby, BC. The decisions to be baptized. reason for the excitement was a series of lectures presented by Dr. Walter Veith, sponsored by the Amazing Discoveries Evangelistic Almost 1000 people turned up on January 5, 1996, opening night for the three week long lecture series on evolution, creation and archaeology.

Through a colourful display of slides Professor Veith. author and scientist from South Africa, clearly and logically weeded through myths of evolution and had his audience turn their eyes upon

Dr. Veith's lectures were particularly attractive to the secular audiences. During the last week of the series, over 40 people (many of them young people as evidenced in the letters) expressed their desire to study the Bible further and to be baptized. The meetings concluded at the Vancouver Central SDA Church on January 26, but follow-up Bible studies

Dr. Veith is also making decisions: where to go next? He is an extremely busy man who finds it difficult to say "no", especially when it means a chance to share his faith. Immediately after the Burnaby meetings, Dr. Veith returned to a hot South African summer where he spoke at many evangelistic series and Camp Meetings. Now in the South African autumn, he continues to have different speaking engagments and to work at the university.

He plans to take half a vear off from the university in 1997. During the months of January through March he is booked for several speaking appointments in the Czech Republic, Austria and Germany. Then in April through June, he will be back in North America.

In the meantime, the Amazing Discoveries Committee is extremely busy with the sale of tapes from his meetings and the constant phone calls from people interested in discovering the truth for themselves. Praise the Lord for the work of the Holy Spirit as people in other denominations, such as Pentecostals and Mennonites, are meeting in small groups to view videos and study things they discovered at the Veith meetings! May the Spirit richly bless their search for truth.

From the Letter Files:

"I wish that your lectures can be extended for a longer period of time. I have learned so much from them. There are things I know now that I haven't dreamed of knowing before. You are indeed a man of God and we thank you so much for the wealth of information..." M. G.

The Amazing Discoveries Committee is comprised entirely of lay people who are committed to evangelism and who truly believe that Jesus is coming soon. They believe that evangelism is not a "spectator sport" and are thrilled to be personally involved in helping people uncover precious Bible truths.

PAYDIRT: Beating the Numbers Game

omy Suszko was looking for truth in all the wrong places.

Romy is a soft spoken young woman from Chile. She speaks fluent Spanish and has a passion for writing and sketching. She's currently working as a cleaner at Lions' Gate Hospital, but she's dabbled in all sorts of jobs from waitressing, to hairdressing, to fashion wholesale, to TV script writing. Her search for truth has led her to with ideologies, experiment philosophies and belief systems as varied and eclectic as her career.

Her "soul-searching" led her into mysticism and the occult, and for a time she was very involved in the Kabalarian philosophy and numerology. Romy became disturbed when she realized that she was beginning to analyze everything in terms of the Kabalarian numerology system. She no longer paid attention to people's names. She was trapped and caught up in analyzing the numbers within the name and what those numbers said

Disillusioned, Romy left the Kabalarian ideas behind and tossed about rather aimlessly in her search for truth. It was about this time that a non-Adventist friend who had attended a Leo Schreven evangelistic seminar lent Romy a video tape of Dr. Walter Veith's lectures on creation and evolution. Romy was fascinated by the clear, logical conclusions backed by scientific data that shattered the idea of evolution. Almost a year later, another friend of Romy's, knowing of her interest in creation, showed her a pamphlet he had received, inviting him to a series of meetings on creation and evolution held in Burnaby. Romy was surprised and delighted to discover that the lecturer was none other than the man who had first sparked her interest in creation and God: Dr. Walter Veith.

Quite independently, Romy had already attended a Seventh-day Adventist church off and on for a year Following the Walter Veith lecture series, however, Romy was excited about having finally found what she reluctant at first, she soon came to look was looking for. She stopped working forward to the weekly Bible sessions, on Sabbath even though that meant a cut in pay. She bought all of the Dr. Veith videos and enthusiastically lent them out to friends as she began to share her new found faith. She also began Bible studies with Pastor Bob Peifer and was baptized by him on March 15, 1996.

Praise God! Romy has found treasure unparalled in the simple truths of the Bible and the accompanying peace of mind. Now if only the rest of her life would unfold as plainly. She plans to do in-house hairdressing and facials this fall while she pursues courses in journalism and children's literature.

CATCH OF THE DAY: Fisherman's Family Finds Faith

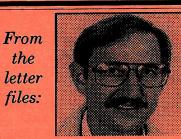

hen on earth. Christ sought out the fishermen to come and follow Him. He still seeks them.

Ken Takahashi, a Steveston, about the character and future of the Richmond area fisheman, heard the call. Says Ken, " I guess you could say I belonged to a pretty rough and rowdy group. We all drank and swore. But things have changed." (A LOT!! says his

Closer examination of the Takahashi story reveals a beautiful example of family evangelism at work. Peggy, Ken's wife, comes from a Buddhist background. About a year ago, her daughter's boyfriend, Niko, began studying the Bible with Shawna, their daughter. Niko came from a Catholic background in the Phillipines. His aunt, however, was a Seventh-day Adventist and she had been sharing her faith with family members. Niko was curious about some of her beliefs, so he and Shawna began studying the Bible

Peggy wasn't very interested in Christianity, but she listened in on some of the studies and found herself being more and more drawn to the topics of discussion. The Bible was fascinating! The couple invited her to join them in their study, and although she was with other family members.

and she fell in love with her Lord.

Dr. Veith, I thank our loving gracious God fo speaking through you... and winning hearts fo Christ. Two people who are very dear to me have made their commitment to Jesus and have made their decision to be baptized thanks to your seminars. Praise God! Thank you very much for sharing the light." Niko Geneblaza

By this time, Shawna and Niko had already made a commitment to God and were baptized at Camp Hope. They invited Peggy to go to church with them, but she was leery to go to a "Saturday church". Finally, she agreed and that is where she first heard about Dr. Walter Veith. As a budding Christian, Peggy had off and on attended the local United church, but felt she never really learned anything. Now when she began attending the Amazing Discoveries meetings, she was thrilled. Refering to Dr. Veith's lectures she says, "They were awesome. He really clinched it

And where was Ken during all this time? Well, this rough and tough fisherman wasn't very anxious to join a Bible study, but last August, his family coaxed him into it. He had to leave for an extended trip so he missed the beginning of Dr. Veith's lectures, but when he returned, he began attending and was impressed. He really appreciated that Dr. Veith supported everything from Scripture not personal opinion. Ken had met some SDA's in Port Hardy but never really connected them with his own search for truth. He had always thought it very odd that they would pay $100,000 for a fishing license only to pass up on good herring fishing if it happened to be a Saturday. Now he understands! The Sabbath is a far greater prize than a boatload of fish!!!!

Ken and Peggy were baptized on March 30 by Pastor Lynn Baerg. They are anxious to share their finds

HEALTH NUGGET

Avoiding a Baaaaa-d Sleep

aving trouble sleeping at night?
Counting sheep isn't helping?
Maybe you should avoid eating them! And cows. And chickens.
And fish. And anything else in the animal kingdom!

It turns out that a diet high in animal proteins often leads to problems of sluggishness, heartburn, ulcer formation and a host of other problems guaranteed to play havoc with your peace of mind...if not your sleep. Just what is the correlation between meat eating and health concerns?

Well, protein is digested by two kinds of enzymes, exopeptidases which work from the outside in and endopeptidases which operate from within the protein. Two of the latter's more common enzymes are pepsin and trypsin. Pepsin is secreted in the stomach in an inactive form. It is activitated by hydrocholoric acid which is also secreted in the stomach. Pepsin will only be activated if the pH drops below pH 6. Hence, protein digestion in the stomach only takes place in acidic conditions. The type of protein to be digested influences the pH at which pepsin operates. Animal proteins are digested at lower pH levels (hence more acid) than plant proteins. Eggs, for example, require a pH of 1.5 which is considerably lower than the pH optimum of pepsin and much lower than pH requirements for plant protein digestion.

The fact is, a diet high in animal proteins will require longer periods of stomach digestion, at lower pH levels, than plant proteins. Longer stomach retention encourages fermentation and this, in combination with higher acid levels, contributes to the yucky sluggish-heartburn-ulcer conditions mentioned before.

To recap:

- -You eat meat.
- -Meat is a protein.
- -Protein needs acid for digestion.
- -Meat protein needs more acid than plant protein.
- -Meat protein stays in your tummy longer and starts to rot.
- -Rot & acid cause tummyaches, etc.
  -Your tummy hurts; you don't sleep.

Things get even more complicated. Animal products have a high free-fat content. Fat isn't digested in the stomach, so it just floats around coating the food in slime and inhibiting the water-soluble pepsin from operating efficiently.

Fat isn't digested in the stomach, so it just floats around coating the food in slime.

You can further complicate this already complex digestion process by drinking lots of fluids with your meals. Liquids consumed during the meal dilute enzyme concentrations in the stomach and, therefore, slow down the rate of protein digestion. Water should be taken before or after the meal---not during it.

So, next time counting sheep just isn't working for you, consider eliminating them and other meat proteins from your diet. You might find yourself sleeping better. At the very least, it could cut down on your mad cow disease nightmares!

HUMOUR UNEARTHED!

HUMOUR UNEARTHED!

It seems there were a few technical difficulties with some of the video tapes sold during the January 1996 Walter Veith Meetings.

The Amazing Discoveries Committee sent a letter of apology to all the purchasers and urged them to exchange the video tapes for new ones.

A typo in the letter inadvertently shed some light on the creation / evolution debate. It said: Please return all defective apes.

Defective apes?
